Our Uniqueness

1- New and contemporary subjects:

Firms and organizations all over the world suffer from the economical crises. Unfortunately, many of these firms did not survive for many reasons. On of the main reasons behind that is the limited knowledge and experience in managing organizations during recession.

Many employees have lost their current jobs because their abilities and skills were not useful in such deep crises. They need to stretch their capabilities to think in innovative ways yo survive. Top performing organizations have learned this lesson and equipped their employees with untraditional abilities in order to be creative and innovative. So, they can find many opportunities during recession.

To help our clients stretch their skills and abilities to face this deep crisis, we designed a group of training courses that will provide new ideas and ways to survive. To name some of these courses:

- | | | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------|---------------------|
| 1- Telecommunication courses. | 2- Computers courses. | 5- Network courses. |
| 3- Electronics course. | 4- Mobile maintenance. | |

Please Check the arabic version of our website for more courses in this regard. Our list is frequently updated, so make sure to review it every now and then.

2- Practical rather than educational:

If you don't practice it you lose it. The learning process is an interactive process between participants and the trainer. The more the trainee participates and interacts, the more knowledge he/she will gain and the more chance to implement what is being learned successfully.

We believe at Dar Amman Academy that the big value in any training course is related to the extent of being practical and giving the trainees the opportunity to implement what is being learned. So we stress on using case studies, manuals, working sheets and forms, group work, etc...

3- Follow up after training:

During training time, participants may not have the time to practice and implement what they learned. So when they return back to work they face difficulties in implementation and they need further assistance from the trainer.

As a value added service, we give our participants the opportunity to send inquiries to us after the course is conducted. These inquiries will be reviewed by the trainer and replies will be sent. This way, we will help participants to implement what is being learned successfully.

If further assistance is needed and visiting the work location, we try to arrange for that if it is possible.

4- Money Back Guarantee:

We provide a guarantee to our clients that we will satisfy their needs and expectations at any cost. We are working hard to get their trust in our services. Our ultimate goal is to build a loyal customers' base that values our services and considers them distinguished.

Dar Amman Academy considers stakeholders as partners. We are looking for a long-term relationship with our clients, trainers, consultants, and employees. We believe in long-term success rather than short-term one.

We strive for providing what we promised and above. But, if our performance did not meet your expectations, we guarantee a repetition of the course or a return of the course fee.

5- Tailor made to suit trainee's needs:

Participants have different needs and expectations. Also, they vary with the level of knowledge, skills and educational background. This is a challenge to provide training course that meets all participants' expectations. But, it's a commitment that should be fulfilled. To satisfy these needs and expectation, we try to identify the targeted group for each course. So we will make it easier for participants to choose what meets their needs and expectations.

For some targeted groups, we identified a set of courses that suits to their expectations. For example we have the following groups:

- maintenance courses.
- computer maintenance courses.
- telecommunication courses.
- electronics courses.

(please check our website frequently for more added groups)

Identifying groups is not sufficient to satisfy different needs within the group members. So, we invite participants to send us their requirements and expectations prior to the training course starting date "in a reasonable time" in order to satisfy and cover these requirements in the course contents.

So, please provide us with your requirements for the course content.

Special needs are very welcomed. Trainees' preferences and special needs are taken into consideration from the beginning to make trainees feel comfortable and enjoy their training course.

So, please provide us with your special needs.
